COLOR ME BLUEGRASS

PILLARS 1983 VOLUME XVIII

SAYRE SCHOOL LEXINGTON, KY.

We at Sayre are proud of our traditions, our heritage, and our history. In this section of the Pillars, we would like to share some of the traditions that make us proud to be a part of the Bluegrass. Whether it be a day at the races or a night at the Opera House, we are Bluegrass from head to toe.

The theme of this years Pillars is "Color Me Bluegrass". We have put together a mosaic which depicts pride in our environment. We are happy to share our heritage with you. Sit back and let us Color You Bluegrass.

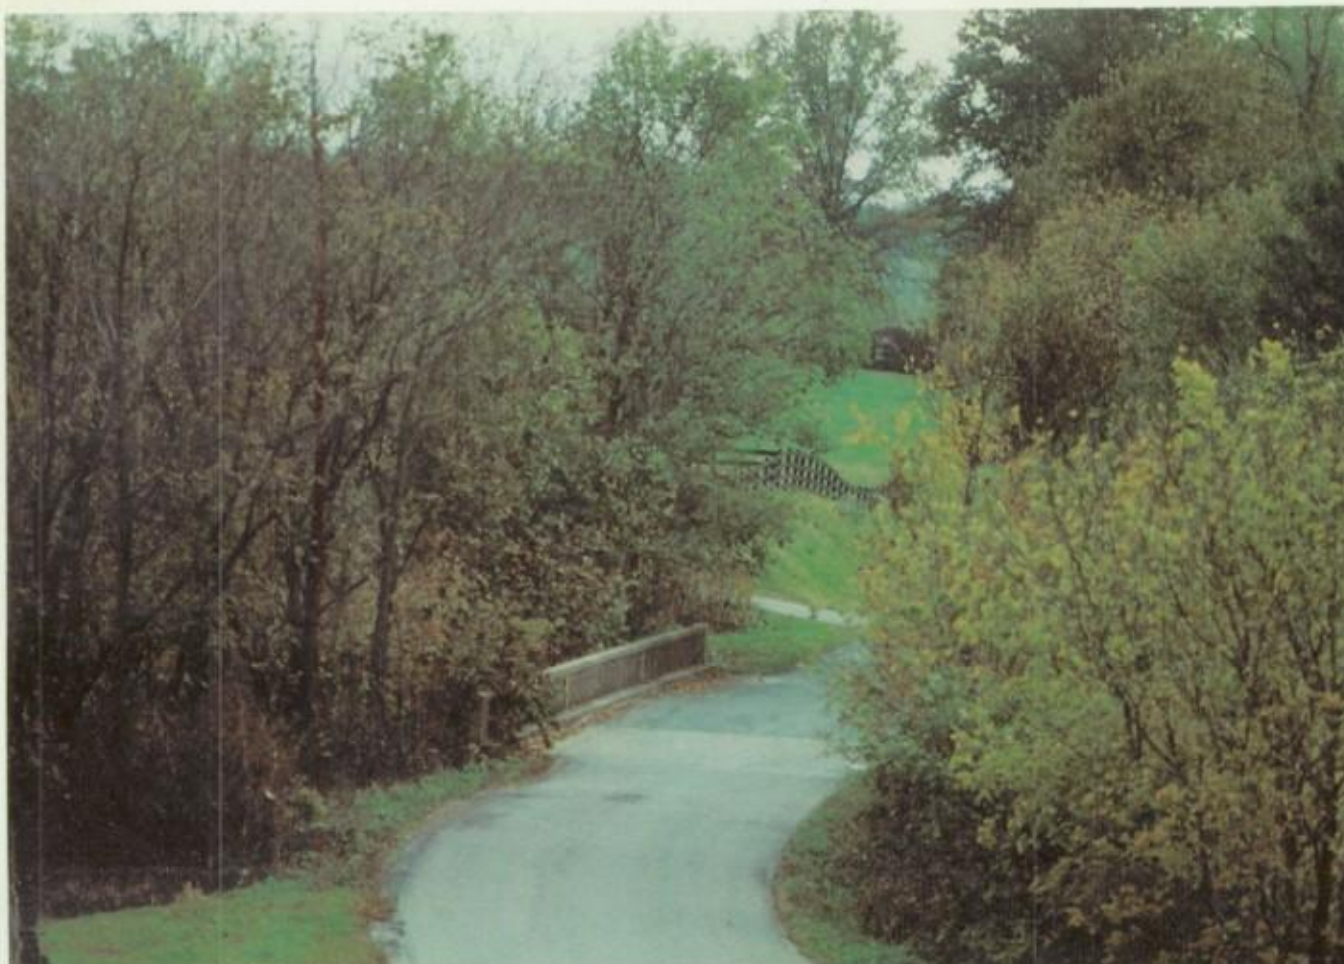

The senior class is pictured on the front steps of the Bell House, one of Lexington's lovely historical places. The Bell House dates back to 1845 when it was built on fifty-six acres of land for David A. Sayre. Although the original home burned, D.D. Bell, then owner of the home, had it reconstructed on the same foundation between 1880 and 1885.

In 1978 the home was placed on the National Register of Historical Places, and early this fall the home was selected as the site for the Decorator's Showcase.

FINISH!

One can not fully appreciate the Bluegrass without experiencing the thrill of Thoroughbred racing. Racing in Lexington is recorded as early as 1787, five years before Kentucky became the fifteenth state.

Keeneland, considered by many as the most beautiful racing facility in America, provides year-round training facilities with racing conducted in April and October. Four Thoroughbred sales are held annually — yearly auctions in July and September, breeding stock in November, and horses of all ages in January.

The Keeneland Association has three primary purposes: (1) preservation of the finest tradition of the sport of racing; (2) conduct of the world's most famous Thoroughbred sales; and (3) service as an active "citizen" in the community and state.

The 1983 Pillars yearbook staff began the year with a new approach. Instead of being solely an extracurricular activity, the yearbook offered a credit course, taught during the school day. The course began with a workshop in the spring of 1982. Students learned layout procedure, photography techniques, and other general information connected with publishing a yearbook. The course, taught by Deborah Zavitz, the yearbook advisor, continued to build good yearbook skills among the staff. The fact that this class was taught during schoolday proved beneficial to many of the staff members who otherwise would not have been able to work on the Pillars, due to extracurricular obligations, such as sports. A great deal of afterschool work was still necessary, but the yearbook course definitely lightened the load.

Everyone on the staff was very cooperative this year, lifting the pressures off everyone involved. We hope that you will treasure this yearbook for years to come, as we will treasure the memories of creating this issue of the Pillars.

The Sooth Sayre is The Sayre Upper School news paper. Students write, edit, type, layout, and canvas ads for each issue. Twelve to sixteen issues are published each year. A publication is offered in conjunction with the newspaper activities so that students can have their writing, proof-reading, editing, and layout skills viewed by others.

CUPOLA

Jenny shares literary secrets with Gigie.

The Cupola is the title of the annual literary magazine at Sayre. Students and faculty submit their poetry, prose, photographs, and other creative works to it, and by the end of the year, the material appears in the magazine. The staff of the Cupola is comprised of students, who under the direction of Mr. Aulick, edit and publish only the best. This year's staff consisted of Gigie Miller, Jennie Williams, Anna Whitaker, and Marek Alboszta.

The goal of this year's Student Council was to serve the student body better. By the beginning of the year, all of the debts were paid off.

Student Council, under the direction of Dana Callahan, planned many exciting projects for the entire student body. Among these were a spirit week, candygrams, and a Homecoming Dance which proved to be fun for everyone.

At the beginning of the year, the members elected to reconstruct the constitution. It was decided to divide student council into two groups for the convenience of unexpected meeting.

The Student Council served well as an intermediary between the students and administration. As usual, student council was behind most of the school activities throughout the year.

The Sayre Singers had a full schedule for their first year with director, Mrs. Jean Howard. This year Julianne Powers was the accompanist, which allowed Mrs. Howard to spend most of her time directing the Sayre Singers. The group sang frequently at Sayre. They performed at the Christmas Bazaar Luncheon, the Christmas Chapel, Christmas in Gratz Park, and on many other occasions. The group performed one special show for the Junior Achievement Trade Fair. This was held in December of 1982 at the exhibition hall in the Civic Center. Julie Palmore, Amy Gamble, Ben Graves, and John Palmer sang as a Quartet for the Alumni Tea, held in the parlor at Sayre.

Many students from Sayre Singers participated in other singing groups outside of Sayre. Some of these students sang in the Junior High All State Chorus. Ben Graves and John Palmer sang in the Bluegrass Choral, a very special chorus here in Lexington.

Other activities include Christmas caroling (Las posadas), crafts, and participation in a Sayre Foreign Language Week.

The Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica is the National Spanish Honor Society for the high school students. The Sayre chapter bears the name of a Chilean songwriter and poet, Victor Jara. To be chosen for the SHH, a student must have a 3.2 average for three semesters of high school Spanish. # DEBATE

Sayre's debate team during the 1982-83 season upheld its reputation as the school's most successful competitive activity. Three year captain Kit Walden was the only senior, joined on the varsity by sophomores, Mark Endicott and Griffin Terry, and freshman, Chuck McKee. In preparation for the season, Kit spent most of August at the Georgetown University summer debate institute. Mark and Chuck had also spent most of July in a similar program at UK. Indeed, Chuck and former Sayre debater, Brian Eich won the UK Tournament before Brian moved with his family to Texas. As in the past, the novice division at Sayre performed very well in competition. Newcomers Marc Goldenberg and Robert Kesten, both sophomores, represented Sayre as novices. Goldenberg and Kesten won almost every novice tournament and ranked as the state's top novice team throughout the season. Ironically, their stiffest competition came from Mt. Olivet Deming, with whom Sayre shared vehicle and motel arrangements all year.

The Spartans were pre-season favorites as Kentucky's second best varsity and one of its best novice teams. Despite the usual errors, bad luck, and questionable judging decisions, those expectations were fulfilled.

In varsity competition, Sayre never ranked lower than fourth during the season. Beating arch rivals Scott County and Louisville St. Xavier became an obsession, and with all senior teams, those schools were formidable foes. Sayre rarely lost to anyone else within the state, and did well enough at out of state tournaments to hover on the edge of national ranking all year.

Senior Kit Walden would graduate with a statewide reputation in debate. She had led Sayre to three state tournaments, and had at least reached the national tournament. Mostly through her efforts, the Spartans had qualified for highly selective tournaments at Northwestern, Emory, and Wake Forest. She was the only Kentucky debater to ever compete three times at Gatlinburg, Butler, or Dayton in the varsity divisions.

Of course, debate was more than just wins and losses. Memories will include long hours on the road in the school's new van, sleeping bags on the floors of motels, wheeled carts of evidence being pushed along halls and sidewalks between rounds, late evening work sessions, and weekend friendships with debaters as far away as Texas and Idaho. And with Kit the only graduating senior, and the state's other powers losing their entire teams, Sayre's next two seasons looked promising indeed.

The Spartans, under the direction of the new head coach Steve Nielsen, started the season early with a mid-August trip to Topsail Island, North Carolina for a week of training. While at the beach, the Spartans played in two scrimmage games, winning the first one over Cape Fur Academy, and losing the second to the eventual state champions, Raleigh Ravenscroft.

Nearly nine miles of running per day at the beach and continual practice after coming home prepared the team for the up coming season. The team opened up their season against Lexington Catholic, in Soccarama. The Spartans had a tremendous comeback in the second quarter to eventually tie Catholic at 2-2.

Overall, the team had a wonderful season after adjusting to the loss of some former players. This year's team had only two seniors and one junior to lead the team, with most of the team composed of underclassmen and junior high students. Yet, the team learned quickly, gaining in experience and winning many matches.

Fourth Row: Michelle Callahan, Jenny Brown, Julie Palmore, Robin Eaton, Libby McCann, Cindy Mossman, Ashley Byrd, Anne Storey.

The girls' soccer team approached the 1982 season with a feeling of uncertainty. Although this is the case for most teams, it was a little different this year for the girls.

For the most part, the team consisted of underclassmen which meant fielding a young and inexperienced team. New coach, Wendy Ross, had her work cut out for her. The team began preparations for this season on September First. Practices were scheduled for one and a half hours, five days a week.

One of the biggest problems consisted of scheduling matches for our team. This problem existed due to the fact that many local schools had dropped their girls' soccer programs. Originally, Sayre had only two matches scheduled, but as the season progressed, Coach Ross managed to gain three more games with the Lexington Youth Soccer Association.

This year's season had its ups and downs, but every player on the team improved her skills. As a result, the quality of soccer played by the team improved. The girls opened the season with a close game against perennial rival St. Camillus. Although Sayre was defeated in a 1-0 contest, the team played controlled and organized soccer. Unfortunately, Robin Eaton suffered a dislocated shoulder which kept her out for the rest of the season.

The next game against St. Camillus was also a defeat for Sayre, but it proved to be an exciting 4-3 match up.

Sophomore Michelle Callahan scored the first goal which got the team rolling, and senior Shannon Ethington scored the other two. The last game of the season was a thrilling victory over the LYSA Raiders. The winning goal was scored by Libby McCann. Goalie Kelly Rogers played a superb game as she managed to stop all shots at the goal line.

Despite the fact that the girls' record was not a winning one, the squad put forth a good effort, and all members had playing time. This year's graduating seniors were Jenny Williams, Louise Ward, Kristen Hundley, Robin Eaton, and Shannon Ethington.

At the close of the season Coach Ross summed things up by making the following remarks:

"The only place this team lost was in the record book. These girls didn't know the definition of the word 'quit'. No matter what the score or the circumstances, they never gave up. At all times the team exhibited competitiveness and sportsmanship. I am proud to have been their coach."

The J.V. Soccer season started earlier for some than it did for others. It started at Topsail Island with Coach Neilson and the varsity team. The J.V. players were given no breaks.

The J.V. team finished with a 6-6 record, but the team showed improvement at the end of the season. Many attributed it to the good pre-season conditioning program which began in late summer.

BOYS' VARSITY BASKETBALL

With the return of only two varsity lettermen, The 1982-83 basketball team made some new adjustments. Under the leadership of new head coach Larry Andrews, the team gelled and developed consistency by mid-season.

The Spartans were led in scoring by Sophomore Lee Osbourne. Lee finished with 420 points in regular season play. He was also very effective on the board as he garnered 187 defensive and 107 offensive rebounds for the season. Several times Lee made High School Honor Roll for athletics.

Transfer Sophomore center Todd Taylor also contributed to the scoring and rebounding phases of the game. Todd added height and also a shooting touch to the team.

Senior lettermen, Mark Reineke and Terry Arnold provided the nucleus from last season's varsity team. Both played with veteran confidence and provided leadership to the younger players, despite an injury to Mark's ankle in early February.

Donald Bergsma, Weathers Hardwick, and Barry Johnson contributed actively in their first year of varsity play. Not many fans will forget the last second shot made by Weathers Hardwick against perennial rival M.M.I.

Throughout the season, the fans supported the Spartans in home game contests. Several times a number of students rode a pep bus to cheer the Spartans in foreign territory. Booster night also provided a nice evening of school spirit.

As the district tournament approached, there were unsure rumblings to be heard around Sayre. For the first time in many years, Sayre felt that it could hold its own in the district tournament. In district play Sayre faced both Lexington Catholic and Jessamine County. Losing in the opening round to a tough Lexington Catholic, did not damper the enthusiasm for the game against Jessamine County.

Sayre entered its final contest with a feeling of confidence. The team probably played its most impressive game in the final outing. Although the Spartans were defeated by 6 points, a new milestone was accomplished. For the first time in the school's history the team had held its own in the district play.

This year's girls' team was much improved over last year's team. Although it was not a winning season, the team gained experience and much needed confidence that will greatly benefit next year's team.

The varsity girls started the season on December 1, with a loss to K.S.D. They came back in the next game and beat Harrodsburg 58-52.

In the Blue Grass Conference Tournament the Rage won the first game against Deming but was defeated in the second round by Burgin. The season definitely had its ups and downs.

In January the varsity team hit a low point with a nine game losing streak. In February, despite the absence of two starters, the girls won against Hazel Green and Louisville Collegiate. The high points of the season were wins over Jessamine and Mercy County teams.

This year's team was one which showed steady and amazing improvement as the year progressed. Coach Lamb started the season with a great deal of enthusiasm and confidence, and this attitude carried over to the team.

Coach after coach from opposing schools offered compliments concerning the improvement of the Rage. According to Coach Lamb, this was accomplished because of desire and hard work. Coach Lamb was quoted as saying the following: "Not only is it thrilling to be a part of a team that has made tremendous strides such as this one, but it is just as exciting to be a part of a group where each individual is a quality person."

Senior Captain, Shannon Ethington, led the team in free throw shooting as well as being the floor leader. At the district tournament in February, Shannon ended an outstanding three year career as a starter for the Rage.

The 1983 Sayre golf team returned all but one player from a fine team which last year posted a winning record, achieved a second place finish in the Bluegrass Conference Tournament, and had one player within two shots of a state tournament berth. Last year was the first year Sayre fielded a girls' team, and although they played a limited schedule, their team spirit and enthusiasm never dimmed. This year we expanded the schedule, confident with our returning players.

The team was fortunate enough this year to have Griffin Gate, one of the finest courses in Lexington, as its home course. Its challenging landscape strengthened everyone's game. Leadership was ably provided by co-captains, Mark Reineke and Terry Arnold, and the team approached the season with optimism and eagerness.

Baseball was one of the few spring sports that Sayre participated in during the school year. The popularity of baseball grew at Sayre in past years and saw more boys going out for the team. This year's baseball team saw the return of many veterans from last year, plus some new faces on the squad.

With the return of last year veterans, Sayre hoped to improve their previous record, two wins and nine loses. The baseball team felt because of the experience the pitchers gained last year they would be more successful on the mound. Pitching has been one of the baseball team's biggest problems in past years. Sayre's baseball schedule usually consisted of the Bluegrass Conference Teams. This year, the baseball players hoped to give their opposition more of a challenge.

TENNIS TEAM

This year's tennis team should prove to be one of the best in Sayre's history. Sayre's team boasts players of national prominence as well as promising youngsters.

The girls team will be headed by veterans Beckwith Archer and Louise Ward. Susan Sloane, a player of national prominence, and Holly Parrish should also provide strong play.

John Backer and Harland Stanley will head the boys' team. Both players are expected to do well against area opponents.

At the printing of the yearbook tennis season had not yet begun, but Sayre has every reason to feel that this year's tennis season should be outstanding.

"Come on, girls, get your gloves down!" Alright, here we go. Be alert. Swing at anything close."

'Yes, when you walk into the midst of the girls' softball team, those are some of the remarks that one is likely to hear.

The '83 softball team, Sayre's third, will be coached by Karen Baum. Coach Baum, in her first year at Sayre, expects a good turnout for this year's diamond darlings. Last year's team recorded remarkable improvement in skills and attitude. With the many returning veterans, it should be another step up the ladder.

"READY, SWING!"

Dear Seniors,

I have always thought of Sayre as a family, and in thinking what I was to say to you this year in parting, it occurred to me that you — as a group — illustrate that thesis very well.

You are a happy group — a group that enjoys life — that appreciates fully each other's differences and little eccentricities.

This is what a family should do. You leave for us a good example to follow and I thank you for it.

Good luck.
Sincerely,

DEDICATION

Deborah Zavitz began teaching at Sayre four years ago. Four years ago, the class of 1983 were freshmen, new to high school and often new to Sayre itself. Mrs. Zavitz was new, too. She has, in these past four years, been a friend to each of us, individually. We all have priceless memories of classes and spur-of-the-moment hallway conversations with Mrs. Zavitz. Laughter and friendship are two crucial elements of growing up and Mrs. Zavitz was a source of both for us. In thanks, we dedicate this 1983 issue of the Pillars to Deborah Zavitz.

It is almost ironic that we should dedicate The Pillars to Mrs. Zavitz. In the years she has taught at Sayre, she has been the guiding light and motivating source of the yearbook. Mrs. Zavitz has undergone countless late-afternoon-into-evening sessions, always meeting deadlines, always making work fun. Without Mrs. Zavitz, this yearbook might not exist.

Mrs. Zavitz's interest goes far beyond the yearbook. She teaches freshmen English and Public Speaking, as well as Drama. Mrs. Zavitz has the ability to make anything fun, from Shakespeare to demonstration speeches. Any student who has had the privilege of learning under Mrs. Zavitz will testify to the fact that Mrs. Zavitz is one of the most humorous persons alive today. She can relate any story or anecdote and leave listeners rolling in the aisles with laughter.

Mrs. Zavitz has her serious side as well. Students leave her classes with firm knowledge and understanding of the subject, whether it be English or Drama. Outside the classroom, Mrs. Zavitz is always willing to talk with students, or just listen. Her ability to listen and offer prudent advice made her an invaluable part of Sayre's teaching staff, as well as a good friend.

Mrs. Zavitz and her husband have coached golf at Sayre for two years. The golf team has enjoyed success since the Zavitzes began coaching. The Zavitzes started a girl's team at Sayre, as well.

Mrs. Zavitz has helped us to laugh and learn and grow these past four years. We will never forget her or the invaluable lessons she taught us. So with deepest gratitude, Mrs. Zavitz, we present the 1983 Pillars to you. Thank you for everything.

APPRECIATION

In the midst of hectic rushing to and from class and frantically studying for tests, we, the class of 1983, have found a friend we can always trust to smile and cheer us up. This friend is Harvey Thomas.

Harvey seems to be perpetually happy. He creates an atmosphere of relaxation and good feelings for everyone lucky enough to come in contact with him.

We appreciate everything Harvey has done for us. All the smiles and jokes he has shared with us have made our senior year very special. Thank you, Harvey!
